

OBJECTIVE:

This project is aimed at young Europeans with creative concerns, and its main objective is to improve their business skills in cultural tourism, facilitating their social participation and commitment in rural areas.

In other words, it aims for this group of young people to improve and increase their entrepreneurial skills in cultural tourism, with the aim of facilitating their inclusion and social fixation in these rural territories to avoid other derived problems such as depopulation. of the interior spaces, the abandonment of the activities of the primary sector, or the abandonment of the patrimonial, landscape and cultural resources of the interior, which generates economic and social depression.

This context in which young Europeans live in rural areas and the challenges related to the development of these regions, is not only a local or national problem, but a European one.
