This book presents a desk research on refugees integration in Turkey and Poland. The data has been searched of the web as it is the most actual information we could find. Printed documents are not actualized and make difficult to have a clear idea of the real situation in the time the search has been done. In the end of the second part, the advantages and disadvantages of self-employment of refugees and migrants has been discussed. The last part of the book presents a field research carried out from 19.11.2018 to 11.01.2019 in Turkey. The main topics analysed are the frequency refugees in Turkey use Information and communication Technology, which communication channels and if they know basic roles on online safety and browsing. This study will provide as with a clear idea of the refugee situation to start a self-employment activity.
